Jefferson IRB Announcement – New Essential Study Documentation Webpage

As part of the Quality Improvement Program, the OHR offers assistance in the creation and maintenance of study/regulatory and patient binders for clinical research studies. At your request, the Quality Improvement Team can provide a binder for you to get started. In addition, the OHR has provided all the tools needed to create your own binder on the new Essential Study Documentation webpage. This can be accessed through the link under the same name on the left hand side of the OHR website.
